

Regional GDP Trends

NJ Experiences Most Growth in Region in Q3 2019

After two quarters of below average GDP growth, the Garden State's percentage change in real GDP exceeded both regional and national averages in Q3 2019. New Jersey's Q3 percentage change in real GDP registered 2.3% growth, the highest in the region. Delaware experienced the largest percentage change in real GDP in Q1 2019; however, the state experienced the lowest growth rate in Q3, registering 0.0 percent growth. New York also experienced a much smaller growth rate in Q3, registering a slight 0.5% change in GDP. In Massachusetts, where the total GDP historically has been lower than in New Jersey, faster growth has produced a real GDP that is now comparable with the Garden State.
